GE Plastics purchases Borg-Warner Chemicals

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
General Electric and Borg-Warner Corporation have signed a definite contract whereby GE Plastics will acquire Borg-Warner's chemical business for $2.31 billion in cash.
Borg-Warner Chemicals operates its Baymar plastics plant in Hancock County in the Port Bienville Industrial Park and employs approximately 150 permanent and contract personnel.
Ralph Rice, Baymar manager on Thursday said, "The combined business of both companies will strengthen their competitiveness in the worldwide plastics business in which they serve. No significant changes are expected at the local plant."
The purchase, subject to federal government review and approval, includes seven chemical plants in the United States and Canada, among them the $120 million Baymar plant at Port Bienville Industrial Park in Hancock County which makes plastics.

Borg-Warner's Hancock County plant began in 1980, with an initial construction cost of $30 million. The facility opened its doors for operation in March, 1982.
The local plant underwent a $30 million expansion in September, 1986, and a new product plant was built in September, 1987, for $60 million.
Borg-Warner Chemicals, Inc., produces engineered thermoplastics at Port Bienville, which are shipped in bulk by rail to other plants within the company for processing.
The Port Bienville plant, with a total payroll of $5 million, is structured with employee involvement or participative management as an operating style. Since operations began, Borg-Warner personnel have not lost a day from work due to injury on the job.

Rice stated, "We see no change here at all except the name that's on the door, and we expect to see continued investment at the Hancock County plant."
GE plastics, with headquarters in Pittsfield, Mass., is a world leader in engineering thermoplastics, the fastest growing segment of the plastic industry. The business is organized within the Materials Group, which also encompasses silicones, industrial diamonds and abrasives, and plastic laminates.
Group profit for 1987 was $507 million on $2.76 billion in sales. The plastics business generated $375 million on $1.7 billion.
"The purchase process has been going on for months with the local employees being kept informed, so this is no surprise to them. We had prospective buyers to visit our plant," Rice said.
The plastics which leaves the Hancock County plant for further processing are used in hundreds of applications, including automobile interior trim, appliances, telecommunication and business machines housings, pipe, sporting goods and recreational equipment such as boats, campers and snowmobiles.
Borg-Warner Chemical, Inc. was the recipient of Hancock County's first Award of Excellence at the Port and Harbor's Salute to Business and Industry Breakfast in April, 1988.

FOUNDER'S DAY PICNIC—Centennial events included a Founder's Day Picnic for the citizens of Waveland Saturday. Winners of the Centennial Essay and Poster contests were named and received a blue ribbon. The contests were organized by Nan Erhbright who was assisted in the awards presentations by Aldermen Stella Frilot and Curtis Colson Jr. All types of games and contests were held at the day-long affair at Buccannier State Park which is located within the city. Field, Prendergast sentencing delayed

BY DENA BISNETTE
Circuit Judge James Thomas has delayed sentencing for a Waveland firefighter and police officer charged with arson.
On Thursday, two days after Justice Court Judge Lee Klein agreed to delay a preliminary hearing, William M. Field III and Michael E. Prendergast waived indictment before Thomas, entering guilty pleas.
Field, 26, of 401 St. Jude Street, told Thomas Thursday that he had burned his own Ford Aerostar van May 25 in a wooded area near Pearlington. Prendergast, 25, of 1009 St. Joseph Street, told the judge that he assisted Field "because he's my friend."
Thomas placed the two on probation and said he would probably decide on a sentence in August or during the regular term of Hancock County Circuit Court in September.
However, the judge first demanded that Field tell him how and why the van was burned.
Field said he did it "to get out from under the payments." He has since made restitution of more than $8,000, which he said he has borrowed from family and friends and will pay back with interest.

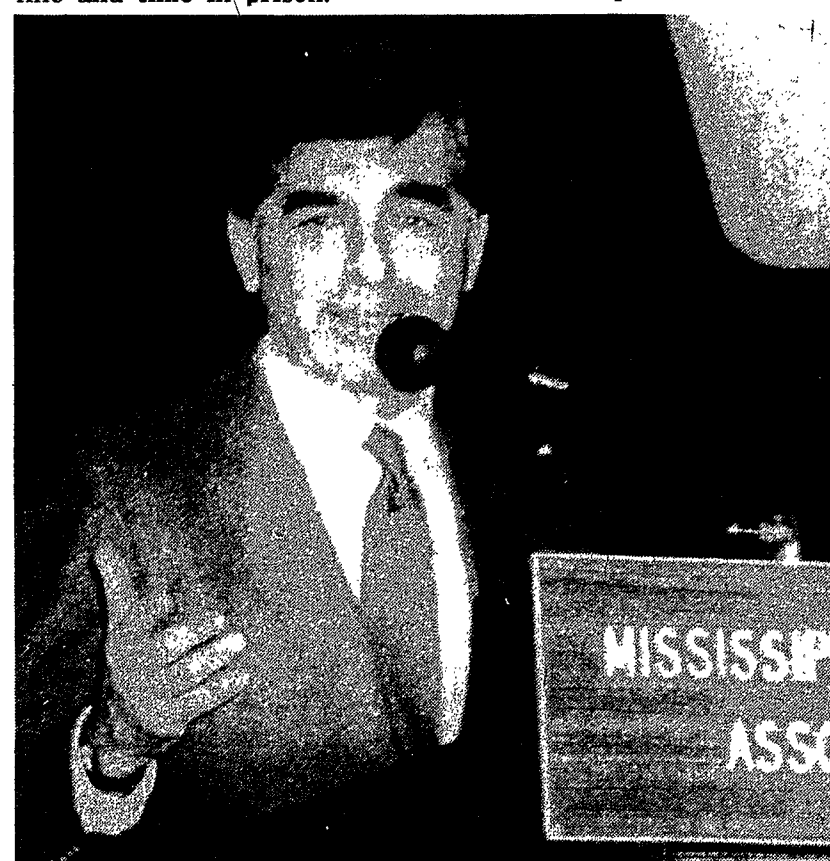

Pearlington and had followed a car fleeing from the area at a high rate of speed.
Tag numbers were later used to link Field to both vehicles.
The judge asked Field how he had been caught and after hearing his statements, turned to Prendergast.
"How long have you been on the police force?" Thomas asked.
"Four years," Prendergast said.
"After four years as a policeman, you should have found a way to do it without getting caught," the judge commented.
"You just blew a heck of a good career, both of you," Thomas also told them.
Field and Prendergast are on suspension from their respective department, where, according to their attorneys, both had good records. Field had attained the rank of captain in the fire department.
Thomas placed both men on probation until he decides upon a sentence. The maximum penalty for the type of arson with which they were charged is up to 10 years in prison, a fine of up to $10,000, or a combination of a fine and time in prison.

Thomas' reaction was, "Boy, are you dumb. That was dumb."
He asked Field why he did not just allow the vehicle to be repossessed, rather than get himself into trouble.
The six-year veteran of the fire department replied, "I didn't think, I guess."
Thomas asked if the vehicle was insured and said he would consider the fact that no insurance claim was entered and that the van was Field's own property when he decides on a sentence.
Field had insured the vehicle and had reported it stolen at about 6 a.m. on the same day the burned vehicle was found after a passing motorist told the sheriff's department he had seen a fire or explosion near

ON THE TRAIL OF A NOMINATION—Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis, in Biloxi Friday, speaks to the Mississippi Municipal Association about the need to boost the war against drugs. Among local dignitaries greeting Dukakis were Hilda Bourg, Mayor Victor Frankiewicz and State Senator Gene Taylor. Bourg, a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee and chairman of the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee, is a Mississippi Democratic delegate. She and Frankiewicz, and alternate, are the only two delegates committed to Dukakis. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

Solution needed now for landfill space woes

BY DENA BISNETTE
While the Hancock County Board of Supervisors is planning to coordinate its efforts to seek a long-term solution for garbage disposal with other agencies, a short-term solution will have to be found in three to four months.
On Friday, the supervisors met with Waveland and Bay St. Louis officials as well as representatives of Gulf Regional Planning Commission, South Mississippi Planning and Development District, Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control, Pearl River Basin Development District and a number of private hauling and waste disposal industry representatives.
The group discussed both short-term solutions and alternatives to the present system of disposal, which is a landfill at Catahoula.
Hancock County Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson, who is in charge of the landfill, said the seven-acre facility is expected to last only three to four months, after which there will be no room to bury any more garbage and still meet the standards set by Bureau of Pollution Control, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and other regulatory agencies.

Without breaking the material into compacted garbage and non-compact garbage, Johnson estimated a current total of about 13,000 cubic yards of garbage is brought to the landfill during an average month.
In an effort to conserve room, the landfill recently stopped accepting trash, which includes natural debris such as tree branches as well as items such as old appliances. Trash is being sent to a site at Standard and only household garbage can be accepted at Catahoula.
There is also the possibility that the county can obtain use of more modern and appropriate landfill equipment to better compact garbage and conserve space that way.
According to Johnson, the site is in the buffer zone for John C. Stennis Space Center, formerly National Space Technology Laboratories, and is actually 28 acres. He is trying to arrange use of additional parts of the site with NASA officials.
Johnson said he feels that NASA officials will be cooperative but there is a question whether permits can be obtained. The original seven acres was permitted more than 10 years ago.
Billy Warden, a Bureau of Pollution Control representative, said it is possible to transfer a landfill permit from party to party but not from site to site. In addition, regulations have changed within the past three to four years and are now more stringent.

It could take about two years to obtain a permit, including the studies that are necessary before an application can be filed, he added.
The board has already initiated some actions toward obtaining a permit for a second site. Those efforts are being coordinated by David Taylor of Gulf Regional Planning Commission, who told the board that preliminary geology evaluations of the Catahoula site indicate that it may meet standards.
In addition, Taylor contacted Jimmy Palmer of the Mississippi Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Geology. That agency is expected to send someone down to start soil borings on the Standard site in July to see if that site can meet garbage landfill specifications.
Johnson has stated several times that the Standard landfill would not be a permanent solution, but only a temporary one.

Dukakis receives Maybus' endorsement for president

BY D.C. HARVILL
Michael Dukakis, the Massachusetts governor who is likely to win the Democratic nomination for president, campaigning in Biloxi, proposed an all out war against drugs, and received the endorsement of Mississippi Governor Ray Mabus.
Speaking before an assembly of the Mississippi Municipal Association at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum Convention Center, Dukakis said American families face an uncertain future; threatened by rising costs, changes in the workplace, a decline in values, "and the ever increasing flow of drugs."
"The greatest threat to our national security in this hemisphere isn't the Sandinistas—it's the avalanche of drugs that's pouring into our country," Dukakis said.
He rapped President Reagan for not devoting adequate funding to drug enforcement.
"Why are we cutting Coast Guard drug patrols by 55 percent, while we continue to spend billions we don't have on MX missiles on railroad cars? Why are we cutting federal aid to state and local drug enforcement by two-thirds, while we continue to spend billions on Star Wars?

"And why were we paying tens of thousands of dollars a year to a dope-peddling, gun-running Panamanian dictator?"
"My friends, we have five percent of the world's population, and we're consuming 50 percent of the world's cocaine."
"And it's going to take more than a six month PR campaign or an occasional film strip to do something about it," he said, taking a jab at Nancy Reagan's "Just Say No" campaign.
"We need a unified strategy to fight the war against drugs. A strategy that includes tough, sustained, unrelenting law enforcement...at home and abroad; including the use of the military where appropriate and necessary."
Touting his efforts against drugs as governor of Massachusetts he said, "For the past four years, I've been working...to help our youngsters and their families stay away from drugs."
"We call it the Governor's Alliance Against Drugs. The Drug Enforcement Administration calls it a model for the country. And it's working. Marijuana use among our high school seniors is down by twice the national average and cocaine use by five times.

"We need a National Alliance Against Drugs; an alliance whose goal will be drug free schools in every community in America in the 1990's."
We can win the war against drugs, Dukakis said, if we work together.
"We can win if we train our teachers to help provide effective education and counseling about drugs....
"We can win if we establish permanent Community Coordinating Councils....
We can win if we involve the business community actively in this effort. In Massachusetts, many of our largest corporations are helping to drive drugs out of the workplace through employee assistance programs modeled after our school-based alliance....That's real teamwork...the kind of teamwork we need in every state in this land."

County seeking donations for track construction

The Hancock County Parks and Recreation Department is seeking donations for the construction of a walking track at Hancock Medical Center.

County Recreation Director Hilda Bourg said the track is similar to one constructed for walkers and joggers in a d'Iberville park and will include a warm-up area.

According to Bourg, several carpenters have already donated labor for the construction of the warm-up equipment, but some materials such as poles and lights are still needed.

The county will probably be able to furnish the labor needed for the track itself.

Bourg may be reached at her office in the county's central maintenance barn at 255-4425.

Quotables by CUEVAS

Just a little over a month ago a united effort was conducted along the tri-counties of the Mississippi Gulf Coast on Marine litter.

The effort was backed by the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation, Bureau of Marine Resources, Gulf Islands National Seashore, Gulf Coast Chamber of Commerce, Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Extension Service and local municipalities.

There were several folks who worked very hard in Pearlington, Clermont Harbor, Waveland and Bay St. Louis collecting debris on May 14.

One Tuesday of this past week, the Hancock County Beach maintenance crew was very busy beautifying our sand beaches.

Tuesday night some off shore wind littered our beaches with soft drink bottles, milk jugs, water jugs, plastic oil containers, oil, styrofoam cups, plates, etc.

Many of these items can be attributed to shrimping boats and we wonder why shrimpers, both commercial and sport, cannot bring their litter home and properly dispose of it.

Our water is precious and if we keep filling it up with litter, one day we may not be able to enjoy shrimp, crabs, oysters and fish from our doorsteps.

Litter is a serious problem and it is the responsibility of all of us to start thinking about the future.

Plastic and metal debris in water is far slower to decompose than other kinds of litter. It has been estimated that a six-pack yoke can last in the marine environment over 400 years and that a discarded can or tab takes from 100 to 500 years to disintegrate.

If we continue to dump into our waters at the rate we are at now, it is possible the lake will be filled in not too many years to come.

Think about it!

Seeking Coast alliance to support mentally ill

Letters
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

To The Editor:

Mental illness is a term used for a group of disorders causing severe disturbances in thinking, feeling and relating. They result in substantially diminished capacity for coping with the ordinary demands of life.

Mental illness can affect persons of any age—children, adolescents, adults, and the elderly—and they can occur in any family.

Several million people in this country suffer from a serious, long-term mental illness.

The cost to society is high due to lost productivity and treatment expense.

Patients with mental illness occupy more hospital beds than do persons with any other illness.

Needed: a system of community care —Supportive Housing: A range of housing is needed with various levels of support to meet the diversity of needs of mentally ill persons.

—Day Programs: Ranging from day treatment (out patient) to psychosocial and vocational rehabilitation. These programs help persons recover lost skills and become as independent as possible.

—Client Management: Trained persons are needed to help mentally ill persons access community services.

The Basic Necessities of Life: Like everyone, these people need money, food, recreation and friends.

Now is the time to start taking care of these needs, and others, that face the mentally ill in South Mississippi.

The National Alliance for the Mentally Ill is a self help organization of families of mentally ill persons, of mentally ill persons themselves, and of friends, composed of several hundred local and state AMI groups all across the country.

Its goals are mutual support, education and advocacy for the victims of severe mental illness, especially schizophrenia and manic and other disabling depressions.

A movement is now underway on the Mississippi Gulf Coast to establish a local chapter of NAMI with the intent of making a positive impact on the lives of the mentally ill. There are many local needs which will require hard work and a lot of support. Now is the time to start the work.

For further information please contact Jim at 875-1771 or Barbara at 896-6527.

Thank You.

ISN'T IT A SHAME!—It is hard to believe this area of Hancock County's sand beach was cleaned the day before this photo was taken of all litter. In this photo several oil jugs, water bottles and milk jugs along with and old cap can be seen. All boaters, commercial and sport fishermen should stash their trash for proper disposal. Ask Ochsner

Q: Our son, who is 30, told us that he had been diagnosed as having irritable bowel syndrome. What is this and is there a cure? LG, Jonesboro, La.

A: Irritable bowel syndrome (IBS), which is often referred to as irritable colon, spastic colon or spastic colitis, is the most common digestive tract disorder in this country. According to Dr. Terry Ortego, a specialist in digestive diseases at the Ochsner Clinic of Baton Rouge, an estimated 22 million people, two-thirds of whom are women, suffer from IBS. It is called a syndrome because it is diagnosed as a number of symptoms occurring together. Such symptoms include abdominal pain, altered bowel habits, constipation and diarrhea.

IBS is usually associated with emotional stress or with poor dietary habits. Often, it starts in adolescence and, in most cases, begins before the age of 40. Many people suffer from IBS for years before an acute "attack" causes them to seek medical help. For most patients, IBS tends to be a chronic condition that flares up from time to time.

Dr. Ortego says usually once you have IBS, you may never be completely cured. Some things you can do to help yourself is avoid stressful situations, follow the medication regimen prescribed by your doctor and increase the amount of fiber in your diet. Diet is one factor that can go a long way in helping to control the symptoms of IBS and is probably much easier to control than stress.

If you suspect you have IBS, Dr. Ortego advises to have a physical examination to make sure the symptoms felt are not some other type of digestive disorder which can mimic IBS. These disorders may include lactose or caffeine intolerance, inflammatory or infectious bowel disease, difficulty in digesting gas-producing foods and benign or malignant tumors of the intestinal tract. Treatment of these diseases differs from that of treatment for IBS, so determining the correct diagnosis is important, he concludes.

Ask Ochsner answers medical questions of general interest. We cannot reply directly to individual questions, nor should you consider general answers an adequate substitute to consulting your doctor about a specific complaint. If you have a medical question you would like us to address, send it to Ask Ochsner, c/o Marketing and Public Affairs Office, 1516 Jefferson Highway, New Orleans, La. 70121. WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

Governor's Column

By Gov. Ray Mabus

During my campaign and as governor, I have posed this question many times: "If Mississippi is doing everything correctly, why are we where we are?"

That same question could be applied to county government in Mississippi.

Most Mississippi counties are being run differently than government anywhere else. Taxpayers' money is being wasted and it is an open invitation to corruption.

Clearly, the 'beat system' of government being used in most Mississippi counties is a bad idea.

We must change to a more efficient, effective form of county government—the unit system.

Democracy in America is built on a system of checks and balances. These checks and balances help ensure that citizens are represented properly and that they are protected against corruption.

Unfortunately, those checks and balances do not exist in Mississippi counties on the beat system.

At the municipal level, city councils adopt the budget and set policy, but it is up to the mayor's office—the executive branch of government—to see that the budget and policies are put into effect.

At the state level, the legislature passes the budget and other laws, but the governor's office and the executive branch of government implement them.

At the federal level, the Congress passes the budget and laws, and the President and the executive branch of government spend the money and carry out laws as directed by Congress.

Mississippi counties on the beat system do something that city, state and federal governments are prohibited from doing: Beat system supervisors pass the budget and set policy, and then they turn around and spend the money and implement those policies.

Unlike government at any other level, beat system supervisors are both the legislative and executive branches.

Not only that, beat system supervisors spend money and implement policies separately in each of their district so, in essence, that's five county governments instead of one.

This system is so inefficient and lacking in citizen protections that Mississippi counties are about the only ones doing it. A unit system-type of government is used by a vast majority of the counties in the United States, according to a survey by the National Association of Counties.

Taxpayers statewide could save nearly $30 million a year under the unit system of government, according to the Mississippi Economic Council, a statewide chamber of commerce.

And, the unit system will help slam the door on the kind of corruption that has resulted in the indictment of more than 50 Mississippi county supervisors under the federal Operation Pretense.

Those counties that have a unit system of government are to be congratulated for the improved service and savings that they are providing to their constituents. But until the unit system is made mandatory statewide—hopefully in a special session of the Legislature year—a majority of Mississippians will suffer.

Patrol offers driver's license renewal tips

JACKSON—Mississippians can save themselves time and money if they take the driver's license renewal notice received from the Mississippi Highway Patrol with them when renewing their driver's license.

"We know the majority of the license holders receive the renewal card or they would not be coming to renew their licenses," said Capt. Ron Ford, director of the Driver Services Bureau's field operations division.

Each month the Highway Patrol mails approximately 35,000 renewal notices to individual license holders to remind them that their licenses will expire in six weeks.

"When citizens come to renew a driver's license and they do not bring their renewal card with them or if they fail to follow the instructions on the card, extra time must be taken to prove the license holder's identification."

"It is necessary that the driver's history be checked in the computer to make sure the license is not under suspension."

After all this, a new card must be typed by the testing clerk. These procedures take a lot of time," Ford said.

Tens of thousands of dollars are spent each year on postage, envelopes, and renewal cards to make it easier for license holders to renew their driver's license with minimum waste of time and money.

"If a license holder has the renewal card with them and they follow the instructions thereon, the time spent to renew a driver's license should be minimal," Ford said.

He reminded license holders that lines are longest at the beginning and the end of each month.

"For a shorter wait, bring your renewal card and renew your license in the middle of the month," he added.

Q. When was the first mobilization of the Mississippi Army National Guard?
A. The first regiment was mobilized January 20, 1866 to counteract actions by Aaron Burr who wanted to detach the Western states and establish the Dixie's as capital. The issue was settled at Washington near Vicksburg without actual combat.

Highlights of 1988 Legislative Session

By REP. J. P. COMPRETTA JACKSON—Education, state finances, economic development, and government reorganization at the state and county levels were among the dominant issues as the 1988 legislative session launched a new administration in Mississippi and turned the page on a new chapter in state government.

Lawmakers clearly established education as a matter of top priority. A major salary increase aimed at boosting Mississippi's teachers to the Southeastern average was approved, and additional funding was provided for universities and junior colleges.

Other top issues involved economic development, health care, voter registration, reorganization of state agencies, constitutional revision, fire protection for rural areas, and groundwater protection. The House voted to let citizens in each county decide if they want a countywide system of road management, but the hotly debated proposal died in a conference committee in the final days of the 125-day session.

In the House of Representatives, the session began on a chilly Tuesday, Jan. 5, with traditional swearing-in ceremonies for the 122 members, including 35 freshmen lawmakers from across the state. Highlights of the opening weeks included the election of Speaker Tim Ford and Speaker Pro Tempore Cecil Simmons, adoption of House rules, appointment of committees, and inauguration of Governor Ray Mabus.

More than 3,000 bills and resolutions were introduced in the House and Senate before the session ended in early May. Some of the highlights:

FINANCES
A general fund budget totaling almost $1.8 billion was adopted for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1988, with increased funding for public schools, universities, community and junior colleges, and mental health programs—and no general tax increase. A record-high allocation of $741 million was approved for the state's Minimum Education Program, an increase of $119 million over the 1987-1988 budget.

Salary increases were approved for school teachers, faculty and staff members at the Institutions of Higher Learning, community and junior colleges, and state employees.

The Legislative Budget Committee originally estimated $1.6 billion would be available to fund the state budget, but revenue estimates were boosted in February by more than $145 million as state income continued to exceed projections. The higher-than-expected collections, along with several funding proposals by Governor Mabus, were combined to fund the increased level of expenditures.

While a tax increase was avoided, several legislators voiced concern over the use of nonrecurring income to help pay for ongoing programs and cautioned that new sources of revenue may be needed in 1989. Others maintained that continued economic growth would help take care of next year's problems.

Key provisions in the Governor's financing package included an acceleration in the collection of premium taxes, generating $18.9 million; the transfer of $25 million into the general fund from a change in highway bond refunding; and shifting $8 million to the general fund from various special-fund accounts.

EDUCATION

Mississippi teachers will get a hefty boost in their paychecks 10 days before Christmas under a multi-million dollar plan adopted in the final stages of the session. A compromise version of bills passed earlier by the House and Senate, the measure calls for an average increase of approximately $3,800 annually, starting Dec. 15, 1988. This means an average raise of about $2,114 for the 1988-1989 fiscal year, with the full impact of the higher salary scale coming in 1989-1990.

The bill boosts base starting pay by $2,000 a year and increases the extra amount teachers get for experience and advanced teachers' certificates. In addition, the legislation includes an increase in supportive services for school districts to help fund salary hikes for teachers not covered by the state's Minimum Education Program; brings kindergarten funding under the Minimum Program; gives a raise to reading assistants; and authorizes the Fiscal Management Board to prepare a group health insurance plan for school employees to be submitted to the 1989 Legislature. Another provision was aimed at helping reduce the amount of administrative paperwork handled by teachers.

Other education bills approved in 1988 included measures making a number of revisions in uniform school laws; allowing the State Treasurer to contract with investment specialists for management of the Education Improvement Trust Fund; more clearly defining the State Board of Education's authority to deny, revoke or suspend teacher certificates; and continuing a 1987 teacher incentive scholarship program slated to expire this year unless reenacted.

Another measure authorized the redrawing of school board district lines in county school systems at the request of school boards. A companion bill also was passed dealing with consolidated school districts. The bills were prompted by federal lawsuits involving several school districts.

An appropriation of $186.9 million in general funds was approved for the state's universities, an increase of $31 million over the 1987-1988 budget for the institutions. An increase of $11.5 million was approved for community and junior colleges.

In addition, the Legislature authorized the issuance of $40 million in bonds for repairs and renovation at the Institutions of Higher Learning. A detailed study was ordered on repair and renovation needs at the community and junior colleges.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Several measures were approved in 1988 in an effort to boost the state's economy, create new markets for Mississippi products, and help local officials in their bid to attract new industry. Major legislation included a bill creating a new Economic Development Highway Fund to help build roads required for major industrial projects such as the $400 million Weyerhaeuser Company plant in Lowndes County. The bill was designed especially to help areas "which demonstrate actual and immediate potential for the creation or expansion of major industry" that involve a capital investment of $100 million or more in the first year, but dropping to $75 million by July 1991.

A measure was approved to reorganize the state Department of Economic Development and abolish the Mississippi Research and Development Center. Some R&D operations and personnel were shifted to the Economic Development agency and others went to a newly created University Research Center, under the direction of the State College Board. Backers said the changes were an effort to improve efficiency, eliminate duplications, and make the state's economic development program more effective.

The bill called for the Board of Economic Development to be abolished and for the Governor to appoint the director of the Economic Development agency, subject to Senate confirmation. It also provided for a 25-member advisory committee to assist the department, and authorized a Bureau for Comprehensive Long Range Economic Development Planning within the University Research Center. Other features include an Office of Minority Business Enterprises in the Economic Development Department to formulate plans to assist minority-owned businesses, and creation of a Mississippi Technology Transfer Office in Hancock County.

Lawmakers voted to increase the number of economic development enterprise zones in the state to assist financially troubled areas; create a small enterprise development loan program to be administered by the Certified Development Company of Mississippi; boost the amount of bonds that may be issued under the widely acclaimed 1986 Business Investment Act from $100 million to $125 million; and expand the Business Investment Act to include aquacultural enterprises and tourism.

An act was passed to encourage the growth of the aquaculture industry in the state and promote cultivation of various forms of freshwater and marine life such as striped bass, redfish and crabs. It does not apply to the catfish farming industry.

Other bills were approved to allow foreign investors to own up to 320 acres of land in Mississippi for industrial purposes; modernize business corporation laws; authorize cities and counties to adopt comprehensive development plans, including long-term goals and objectives; increase the amount of loan guarantees allowed under the Small Businessman's Loan Assistance Law; and make it clear that bonds issued under a 1987 bond refinancing act will not be counted against the bond debt limit on counties and municipalities.

A new program was approved in an effort to stimulate development of markets for Mississippi's agricultural and industrial products.

COUNTY GOVERNMENT

One of the hottest issues of the session was county government reorganization. The House approved a bill providing for voters in each county to decide this fall if they want a countywide system of road management, but the measure died in a House-Senate conference committee. An earlier Senate-passed bill also called for a county-unit system of road construction but allowed road repairs and maintenance to be performed by supervisors. There also were a number of other differences between House and Senate versions.

Several counties already operate on a countywide system of road management but the majority have the traditional "beat" system where supervisors are responsible for road and bridge work in their own districts. A bill permitting a 20 percent pay raise for county supervisors was vetoed by Governor Mabus, an outspoken critic of the beat system, because the county-unit bill didn't pass. The Governor said in the veto message it was his intention to call a special session later this year to reconsider the issue of county government reform.

Governor, lawmakers authorized the naming of a 25-member study commission on government reorganization. The panel was directed to submit its recommendations by Oct. 1, 1988, to the Governor and the Legislature. Other reorganization bills included measures to revamp the Department of Economic Development and abolish the State Board of Corrections.

ELECTION LAWS
A number of changes were approved in voter registration statutes to comply with a federal court decision handed down in 1987. The new law provides for people who are physically disabled to be registered at their homes, and requires the registration office to remain open from 8 a.m. until 7 p.m. during the last week of registration prior to any regularly scheduled primary or general election. Also, the registrar or deputy registrar is directed to spend at least a day at the polling place in not less than three voting precincts in each supervisor's district for the purpose of registering voters during the 12 months prior to statewide general elections. The Legislature also voted to revise procedures for contesting primary elections. Other measures call for mail-in voter registration and an open primary system of elections failed to win final approval.

TORT REFORM
In the area of civil justice reform, a measure to reduce the general statute of limitations for filing damage suits in Mississippi from six to four years died in a House-Senate conference committee. Measures were approved to discourage the filing of frivolous lawsuits, make doctors and lawyers eligible for jury duty, and help protect people acting in a voluntary capacity from civil suits. Several other measures in the tort reform package failed to pass, including proposals to limit damage-suit awards and revise the joint and several liability system to provide that a defendant could be held responsible only for the percentage of damages for which the court finds him liable.

HEALTH CARE
Increased funding was approved for mental health programs, the Department of Health, and Medicaid. Lawmakers voted to expand Medicaid eligibility for pregnant women and infants to 185 percent of the federal poverty level, starting in October, 1988. The measure also includes medical-needy persons who are 65 years of age and over, starting in July 1989. In addition, the Legislature voted to continue the School Nurse Intervention Program authorized in 1987 as part of efforts to reduce teen pregnancies and help young people deal with various health-related problems; authorize the Department of Health to establish a newborn screening program to detect certain disorders that may result in mental retardation or medical problems; allow the Division of Medicaid to establish a perinatal risk management program for high-risk pregnant women and infants; and create a Long-Term Care Ombudsman program to investigate complaints by nursing home residents.

Other health-related bills require that firefighters and emergency medical technicians be advised by hospitals if they have been in contact with someone with an infectious disease; require Home Maintenance Organizations in the state to obtain certificates of authority from the Health Department; provide for regulation of occupational therapists; and permit issuance of certificates of need for nursing home facilities in Jefferson, Perry and Tunica counties.

WORKERS COMPENSATION UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS
Lawmakers voted to increase workers' compensation benefits from the weekly maximum of $140 to two-thirds of the state's average weekly wage, or approximately $195 a week. The new law also revises the definition of "injury" in workers compensation cases, designed to benefit employers by requiring the courts and Workers Compensation Commission to take a new look at what determines a valid claim. In addition, the Legislature authorized a self-insurer guaranty fund for the Workers Compensation Commission. House bills were passed to set up a vocational rehabilitation plan for disabled workers and allow the Workers Compensation Commission to set reasonable limits on fees that doctors can charge in workers' compensation cases, but both died in the Senate.

A compromise measure was approved to boost maximum unemployment compensation from $130 to $145 a week, and provide a small decrease in the contributions made by employers to the unemployment trust fund.

CRIME AND CORRECTIONS
Several laws were approved, in 1988 to more effectively deal with problems of crime and corrections. Lawmakers agreed to grant new authority to the Attorney General's Office to combat white-collar crimes such as fraud, corruption, kickbacks and bribery, including new powers to investigate and prosecute and subpoena records. Another major bill winning legislative approval gave the Governor more direct control over the state's correctional system, doing away with the State Board of Corrections and letting the Governor appoint the Corrections Commissioner, subject to Senate confirmation. The bill also made a number of administrative changes in the Corrections Department.

A bill authorizing district attorneys to assist in obtaining restitution in bad check cases was approved in the 1988 session. Lawmakers also passed a measure to strengthen laws against shoplifting, expanded a law involving sexual exploitation of children to include video tapes, and voted to let officers make arrests without a warrant in domestic violence cases.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION
A measure calling for a statewide referendum on a constitutional convention was approved by both chambers, but the House and Senate versions differed in a number of areas. An effort to reach an acceptable compromise on the measure proved unsuccessful and the bill died in the final days of the session. Most lawmakers agree revisions are needed in the 1890 Constitution, but differ on whether the best way to make the changes is through a convention or the amendment process. Under the proposed legislation, voters would have decided in November if they want a convention for the purpose of revamping the Constitution. If a majority of voters approved the proposition, the convention would have convened in July 1989.

INSURANCE
Lawmakers approved a bill to increase the annual distribution of insurance premium taxes to County Volunteer Fire Departments from $1.6 million to $4.4 million, the same received by municipalities. Counties must comply with certain requirements to receive the funds, including designation of a fire service coordinator in each county. The bill also places the State Fire Academy under the Insurance Commissioner's office, and designates the office of Chief Deputy Fire Marshall as a separate division of the Insurance Department.

Another bill was approved that authorizes counties to pool their risks for the purpose of purchasing property insurance or establishing a property self-insurance fund. A measure calling for compulsory auto liability insurance was approved by a House committee but died on the calendar.

WATER MANAGEMENT-WASTE CONTROL

A measure was approved in 1988 to help protect Mississippi's groundwater supplies and deal with the problem of leaking and abandoned underground storage tanks. The bill created a Groundwater Protection Trust Fund under the Department of Natural Resources, financed by a fee of two-tenths of one cent per gallon on motor fuels, and provided for an incentive program through a two-year grace period to encourage the reporting and cleanup of leaking underground storage tanks. Other key bills set up a water pollution revolving fund to help cities meet federal clean water standards, and established a legislative Environmental protection Council to study hazardous and nonhazardous waste management and disposal needs.

Also, a bill was enacted to let the City of Tupelo issue $23 million in bonds and impose a local one-quarter percent sales tax, if approved by voters, to help construct a water treatment plant and pipeline. The legislation was part of efforts to deal with water problems in Tupelo and other areas of Northeast Mississippi.

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES
Legislators approved a sharply debated bill to remove the ban on advertising liquor and wine by the Mississippi media in legally wet counties. The measure prohibits television commercials for alcoholic beverages during programs designed primarily for children.

LIBRARIES-HOUSING-SPORTSMEN

OTHER BILLS
Among other major bills approved in 1988 were measures to provide for the Mississippi Library Commission to develop a statewide master plan for public libraries; regulate sports agents who deal with high school and college athletes; authorize a special task force to study housing conditions and needs in Mississippi; and permit the sale of special "lifetime" hunting and fishing licenses with proceeds earmarked for wildlife conservation purposes. A senior lifetime sportsman license would cost not less than $400 for persons who are 16 years of age and older, while a junior lifetime license would cost not less than $200 for those under 16.

The Legislature voted to revamp local privilege tax laws; extend sovereign immunity of state and local governments from damage suits for another year; authorize an extra $1 million in funding for Chickasaw Cession school districts; adjust boat registration requirements and fees; allow the Public Safety Department to issue identification cards on a voluntary basis, for people who do not have a driver's license; establish a study commission to look into Mississippi's youth court system; set new safety restrictions for working near high voltage lines; authorize additional assistant district attorneys in four districts (10, 11, 17, 18); provide for licensing of transient merchants by cities and counties; authorize a statewide litter prevention program; and bring state tax laws in line with federal statutes, including a new marital exemption and ing of nondairy frozen desserts; allow savings and loan institutions to qualify as a depository for public funds if they meet minimum requirements; revise laws dealing with registration of architects, landscape architects, and real estate brokers; protect landowners from damage suits by people using public streams flowing by their property; provide a uniform plan for taxation of newly acquired railroads; establish a Municipal Gas Authority program;

One of the last bills passed in 1988 was a compromise version of a House-passed bill to authorize pay raises of 20 percent for several state officials and judges. The proposal was initially rejected in the Senate, which had voted for higher salaries in an earlier measure, but a last-ditch attempt to salvage the legislation was successful. In addition to the 20 percent increases, the bill as passed includes another $5,000 raise for judges to take effect July 1, 1989.

Among the bills failing to gain final passage, in addition to the county-unit measure and constitutional convention bill, were proposals to more clearly define the rights of residential tenants and landlords; require seat belts to be worn; regulate smoking in public; authorize gambling on vessels in the Mississippi Sound; revise laws on municipal annexation; provide for registration of residential child-care facilities; provide for payment of salaries rather than fees to chancery and circuit clerks; allow a state lottery; phase-in mandatory classes for gifted and talented students in the 154 school districts; permit a "house arrest" system for selected nonviolent offenders; permit county "home rule"; revise parole eligibility laws for people convicted of capital murder and armed robbery; and require motorists to drive with headlights turned on during a heavy rain.

By MARK JAMESON COUNTY FORESTER

Southern trees—both commercial stands and ornamentals—are attacked by numerous insects and diseases. Some cause tremendous losses in commercial timberstands, some kill or ruin the appearance of high-value ornamental trees, but others are only a nuisance.

In this series of articles we will take a look at some of the more common problems that plague our trees. By far the most serious are pine bark beetles, but we've covered that topic in depth in previous articles, so we won't deal with it in this series.

A common disease of southern pines, especially loblolly and slash, is fusiform rust. It is caused by a fungus that requires an alteration of hosts to complete its life cycle. Part of the cycle is spent on the living tissue of pine stems and branches, and the remainder in the green leaves of several species of oaks.

The effect of the disease on oak hosts is slight and usually goes unnoticed, although severe infections may cause defoliation.

The situation is quite different with pines. Spores (tiny fungus seeds) are carried by air currents to susceptible pine hosts, where they infect needles or succulent bark tissue. Once the host is successfully infected, the developing fungus grows through the tissue into the stem or branch. In four to six months a gall or swelling begins to form. The fungus persists until the infected tissues are killed.

Old galls may develop into open-faced cankers when the pine tissues are killed at the margin of the gall. These cankers are often invaded by insects and wood-rotting fungi, which further reduce the tree's value and appearance and make it susceptible to wind breakage.

In the spring, the fungus on pine trees produces masses of powdery yellow spores, which re-infect oak trees, thus perpetuating the cycle.

Although complete eradication of fusiform rust is not possible, there are ways to lessen damage. We'll look at these in next week's column.

"Mississippi Roads" special celebrates Natchez Trace

The 50th anniversary of Mississippi's oldest and most fascinating road, the Natchez Trace Parkway, is commemorated in a rebroadcast of a special "Mississippi Roads," Tuesday, June 21, at 7:30 p.m. on Mississippi ETV.

Viewers will receive an overview of the Natchez Trace from David Sansing Jr., a high school teacher from Natchez who has written a story guide about the history of the Trace. Dale Smith, chief of interpretation and visitor services for the Parkway, provides general information about the Natchez Trace today.

Palentologist David Dockery discusses the history of the Trace from a geological point of view, and South District interpreter Rayford Harper tells about the celebrated Emerald Mound, a mammoth ceremonial Indian mound near Natchez.

Viewers will also get a taste of history from Clemmie H. Presley as she bakes sublime breads in a settler's brick oven. Martha Peters Garrott, executive director of the Craftsmen's Guild of Mississippi, explains the history of arts and crafts along the Trace, with a particular look at Choctaw Indian baskets.

Finally, viewers will visit Mount Locust, a restored 1800s farmhouse that was used as an inn for foot travelers along the Trace. Robert Peterson, a park ranger at Mount Locust, tells what travel along the Trace was like in the early 19th century.

"Mississippi Roads" is underwritten by Chevron U.S.A. Inc.

Words of Wisdom

Treat each day as though it were a separate life. . . .

The greatest gift is to realize that life does not consist of living in the past or peering at the future. Appreciate life for what it is now, this day, this hour. . . .

If you look into your own heart and find nothing wrong there, what is there to worry about? . . .

Be not just good, be good for something. . . .

Those who want much are always in need. . . .

Wrinkles may appear on your brow, but don't let them appear on your heart. . . .

Money may bring you acquaintances, but it cannot buy you friends. It may buy medicine, but not health. ©1988, McNaught Synd.

Fortner named board chairman

Ellie A. Fortner of Jackson has been named Chairman of the Board of Review for the Mississippi Employment Security Commission. The appointment was announced Monday, June 6, 1988, by the Commission and Executive Director, Linda Ross Aldy.

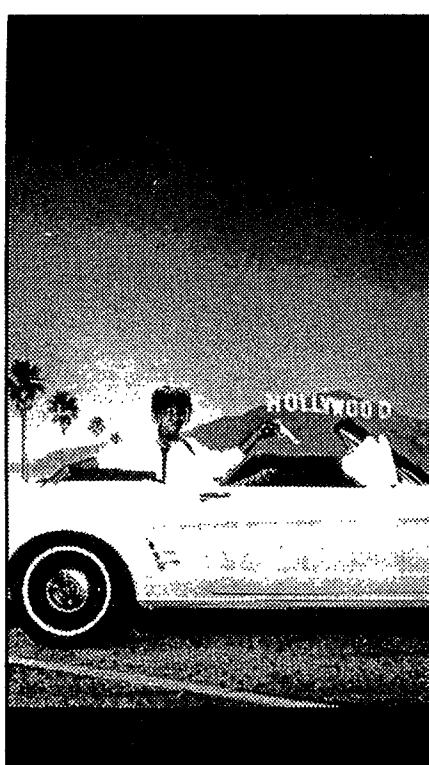

The Board serves as the final appeal of unemployment compensation complaints before going to the court system for employers and employees. The Board acted on 3,887 decisions in 1987. In addition the Board of Review adopts regulations for the overall appeals process and develops fair and expeditious hearings of the appeals process procedure.

Fortner presently serves as Staff Attorney for the University of Mississippi Law Center Mississippi Judicial College. In addition, she is an instructor in the Paralegal Studies Program at the University of Mississippi.

Graduating in May, 1984, Fortner received her Doctor of Jurisprudence from the Vanderbilt University School of Law. She received her undergraduate degree from Clark College in Atlanta, Ga., graduating Magna Cum Laude in May, 1981.

Fortner is a member of the Mississippi State Bar, the Hinds County Bar Association and the Magnolia Bar Association.

Post No. 50 DAV Auxiliary

The Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary, Post No. 50 held its monthly meeting Tuesday, June 7 at 7 p.m. at the Post Home with Auxiliary Commander Aloise Shiyu presiding.

The meeting was opened with Chaplain Berdie Walker giving the prayer. The Pledge of Allegiance was recited by all. Mrs. Beatrice Gaddy, delegate to the State Convention, reported those attending were Dr. Esther Oschmann who organized the state Department of Mississippi; Mrs. Genevieve Cole, Clara Arnold and Mrs. Nell Sanford. Mrs. Gaddy reported the meetings were very interesting and educational. She reported on a talk given by Dr. Oschmann. She explained how she helped to organize the Department of Mississippi and all the wonderful work she did at the Gulfport VA Hospital. Mrs. Cole was praised for attending every convention for 35 years.

The members reported phoning and visiting the sick and helping the needy. Commander Shiyu reported she will name all her chairmen by next meeting. She is stressing for each member to try to get at least one new member besides our regular members so we can go over quota by October.

The more members we have the more we can do for our disabled veterans and their families. Let's all work on membership.

Our state auxiliary commander, Maggie Weaver did a terrific job, and we were honored to have Mrs. Lucille McCarty, retired national judge advocate, as our guest and representing the national department.

Dr. Oschmann presented Commander Maggie Weaver and Mrs. Lucille McCarty a lovely ceramic magnolia. The new State Department commander is Mrs. Rachel Cruthird of Gulfport.

Dukakis.....

He rebuked the Reagan Administration for the failure of a joint plan by Latin American leaders to oust General Noriega from Panama.

The administration tried to do it alone, he said, and "they fell flat on their faces."

"We've got to do more than lecture our neighbors in Latin America; we've got to work with them. We've got to create a real partnership for economic opportunity throughout this hemisphere."

We have to allocate more of our foreign aid to the war on drugs, he said, to eradicate drug crops and replace them with other profitable crops, to gather intelligence information, to strengthen enforcement and prosecution.

"And we've got to back up what we say with what we do."

"As president I'll sign an Executive Order to prohibit the payment of CIA or other intelligence agency funds to any person engaged in drug trafficking—unless it's part of an undercover operation aimed at detecting or nabbing the drug traffickers, themselves."

"My friends we've got to put someone in charge of the war against drugs."

"Today there are eleven cabinet departments and almost three dozen federal agencies involved in the drug war. No one person is responsible; no one is accountable; no one is in charge."

"Is it any wonder, then, that we see the Commandant of the Coast Guard telling Congress that 'Here I sit, the primary agency for drug interdiction, without the money to operate. I have men and women sitting at the dock doing nothing'."

"Finally we need a real partnership between federal and state and local law enforcement agencies."

Then echoing the philosophy of Zero Tolerance, he said, "We need laws that will confiscate every penny in property and profits that come from drug trafficking, so that we can use those resources in the war against drugs."

He ended his speech saying, "I'm confident that—with the right leadership and with the full support of the American people—we're going to win this war."

Governor Mabus gave Dukakis his endorsement at a press conference following the speech, saying that he would be involved in the campaign to the extent Dukakis wants him to be.

Mabus then put a pin on Dukakis' lapel and said, "Mike Dukakis is now an official yellow dog of Mississippi."

Dukakis stated that he believes the same strong coalition that elected Mabus will elect him.

"The only thing he lacks is a federal partner. If we can't through strong national leadership, make it possible for Ray's legislature and the leaders of this state to bring growth and economic opportunity here to Mississippi, then there's something the matter with the United States of America," Dukakis stated.

Landfill.....

ley, indicated that there is no possibility that there will be a landfill anywhere except in the north end of the county.

He said that is because a clay seal is required to keep substances from decaying garbage from leaching through soil into water supplies, and that type of clay can be found only in the north end of Hancock County.

Board of Supervisors President Ronald Cuevas said he and other board members had recently returned from a seminar in Jackson, where solid waste disposal had been a topic of discussion.

"What we were told in Jackson last week is that the future is not bright at all, and that regulations, restriction and requirements are not going to diminish at all. They may multiply tenfold," Cuevas said.

Mike Davis of Pearl River Basin Development District said his agency can not do anything to help the county directly with garbage disposal, but there is a possibility that the district may be able to find funding for studies, soil borings and other preliminary work.

Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr. said the county already has the mechanism to deal with making arrangements for solid waste disposal through the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District, because that entity deals with the same state and federal agencies that govern solid waste disposal.

He suggested a meeting with Charles Chisholm, head of the Bureau of Pollution Control.

Longo said he had talked with Chisholm and that Chisholm had expressed a willingness to brief the supervisors on anticipated requirements and some of the acceptable waste disposal alternatives.

Some of the alternatives discussed while the board took suggestions from those in attendance Friday included setting up a "green box" system, recycling, burning waste to create steam energy and hauling the waste outside the county.

There are three sites nearby, the recently opened Waste Management Landfill in Harrison County, the BFI Landfill in Harrison County and a private site near Picayune.

Johnson has already obtained cost estimates from those firms, which both charge for garbage from outside their area.

Somewhat more distant is a steam-generating plant that belongs to City of Pascagoula, but an official from that plant said there is a charge for outside garbage and the amount that the plant can take is quite limited.

One of the waste disposal companies has set up a "green box" system in a rural Alabama county similar to Hancock County. The boxes are actually dumpsters placed at various collection sites, then the garbage is hauled to the contractors landfill for disposal. Potential problems include the dumping of waste around rather than in the boxes and rodent infestation.

Recycling would take care of approximately 10 percent of the waste and the county would still have to problem of disposing of the remaining 90 percent.

Setting up a steam plant like the one in Pascagoula has been tried mostly in heavily populated areas, not rural areas like northern Hancock County. It is not considered economically feasible unless there is a definite steam-power market or unless there is a market for power from cogeneration of the steam into electricity.

The board recessed until 9 a.m. June 30.

Odham-Favre

Christ Episcopal Church in Bay St. Louis was the setting for the June 4 afternoon marriage of Shirlene Ann Favre of Waveland and Steve Odham of Clermont Harbor. The bride is a daughter of Shirley Ladner of Bay St. Louis and the late Wilbur O. Favre Sr. The groom's parents are Lois and Merlin Cripple of Waveland. Nuptial music was presented by organist Pat Hille and soloist Edward Ishem Jr. Given in marriage by her uncle, Verne Shaw of Waveland, the bride wore a formal gown of white bridal satin with off-the-shoulder neckline enhanced with a lace flounce and puffed sleeves. A lace peplum enhanced the waistline with attached train. A veil of silk illusion was secured by a headpiece of silk flowers, pearls and lace.

She carried a cascade of pink and white carnations, baby's breath and fern interspersed with lace-edged ribbons.

Rosemary Favre of Waveland, sister of the bride, was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Jean Lala, Susan Stephens, and Viola Ishem, all of Bay St. Louis.

Tametrica Ishem of Bay St. Louis was flower girl.

The attendants were identically attired in formal gowns of mauve, and carried nosegays of pink and white carnations, baby's breath and fern with lace edged ribbon. They wore hairpieces of baby's breath and fern. Richard Owens of New Orleans was best man.

Groomsmen were Don Fletcher and Matt Palmer of New Orleans and Terry Stephens of Waveland.

Groomsmen were Billy Favre and Bobby Fleming, both of Waveland. Jules Favre Jr. of Waveland was ring bearer.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

The couple departed for a honeymoon destination of the Grand Hotel in Point Clear, Ala.

Cuevas-Johnson

Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Cuevas of Bay St. Louis announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Stephanie Ann Cuevas, to Keith Eric Johnson, son of Mrs. Karin Brossette of Waveland and Richard E. Johnson of Pilot Knob, Mo.

Miss Cuevas is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McCullough of Bay St. Louis and the late Mr. and Mrs. Monroe F. Cuevas.

The bride-elect is a 1985 graduate of Bay Senior High School, where she was a cheerleader for 4 years, a member of Student Council and Business Club and on the yearbook staff. She attended Jefferson Davis Junior College and the University of Southern Mississippi and is employed with City Finance Company of Gulfport. Mr. Johnson is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Demola of Metairie, La. and Mrs. Agnes Romine of Doe Run, Mo.

The prospective groom is a 1982 graduate of Bay Senior High School. He attended Jefferson Davis Junior College and is currently pursuing a degree in computer information systems at Tulane University. He is employed with Tulane Medical School in New Orleans.

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church will be the setting for the July 30 marriage at 3 p.m. with reception following at Jourdan River Shores.

Clubs, Auxiliaries

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

The regular monthly meeting of the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 139, was held on Monday, June 12, at the Legion Home. Mrs. Mattie North, president, opened the meeting; Mrs. Christie LaFontaine, color-bearer, presented the colors which was then followed by the prayers recited by chaplain Roslyn Weathers.

The following officers were elected for 1988-89: Janet Aime, president; Judy Gavagnie, first vice president; Susan Piazza, second vice president; Lana Noona, secretary; Bobby Tomlinson; treasurer; Debbie Collier, chaplain; Jeanette Ladner, historian; Nell Sanford, sergeant-at-arms; Christie LaFontaine and Hazel Wohlschlegel, color-bearers; Margie Schultz, Joyce Bermond and Margaret Prevou, executive committee.

Our sincerest congratulations to the new officers, and we most enthusiastically wish them a healthy, happy and prosperous year.

Mrs. Lena Cuevas was given the 'all-time' title of color-bearer of Unit 139.

Refreshments were served after North adjourned the meeting and everyone congratulated the new officers.

The regular monthly picnic for the veterans on the 'farm' took place on Wednesday, June 15. Susan Piazza, Phyllis Moran, Mattie North, Nell Sanford, along with Hazel Wohlschlegel, VACS chairlady; and Roland Wohlschlegel, Horace Ruhr and Hugh Sanford were the volunteers who participated in this activity.

Vic Greene entertained them with music and the veterans joined in for a sing-a-long. Lunch was served and a good time was had by all.

Miss Joy Lynn Gillan was incorrectly identified as Little Miss Poppy for the 1987-88 season. She held that title from 1986-87. Miss Shealey LaFontaine is the current Little Miss Poppy, 1987-88. We apologize for this error.

Take Off Pounds Sensibly

PASS CHRISTIAN

Tops 213 Pass Christian met June 14. Top loser for the week was Sue Powell. Theda Fischer earned a charm for losing 10 pounds. The club started a new contest, 'Dieto'. The club will be having a fundraiser car wash on Saturday, June 25 at the Gulf National Bank parking lot in Bay St. Louis between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The club invites anyone interested in weight control to come visit the club. The meeting is held every Tuesday at the Pass Christian Library on Hiern Avenue between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. For information call Jeannie Livings at 452-9706 or Gayle Arnold at 467-7198.

WAVELAND

Tops No. 233 Waveland met June 14. Top loser of the week was Nancy Voiselle.

Meetings are held each Tuesday at the Waveland Library on Coleman at 6:45 p.m. Weigh-ins begin at 5:30 until 6:30 p.m. Information concerning the club may be obtained by calling Chris at 467-7716 or Sandra at 467-9271.

Thought of the week is: take a look in the mirror. Do you like what you see? Remember, the better you feel, the better you look. Take care of your health. Eat sensibly and diet wisely.

FENTON

Tops 231 Fenton met June 9. Top loser of the week was Linda McKay, earning a charm for losing 40 pounds. Sherry Perkins earned a charm for losing 30 pounds, and she was also the best loser for the month of May. Freda McClantoc earned a charm for losing 20 pounds.

Tops statistics: Tops Club Inc. began in 1948, founded by Esther S. Manz. Beginning with only four homemakers, the non-profit organization has grown to over 320,000 members with almost 12,000 Tops chapters.

Diet tips: When dieting, if you slip and fall back into old eating habits, don't throw in the towel. Forgive yourself and try again. Plan ahead what you are going to have for each meal. This helps you to pay attention to what you eat.

Tops 231 Fenton meets each Thursday from 6 to 7 p.m. with weigh-ins from 5:30 to 6 p.m. at the Fenton Community Center on Kiln-DeLisle Road. Any person interested in Tops may call Ollie Shiyou at 255-9385 or Linda McKay at 255-9863.

Bay-Waveland Jaycees

The newly reorganized chapter of the Bay-Waveland Jaycees was chartered May 2 with the Mississippi Jaycees and the United States Jaycees.

Officers include: Clark Breland, president; Ernie Zimmerman, management development vice president; Jimmy Ladner, individual development vice president; Beth Seymour, secretary; Georgia Breland, director; Tom Gibbons, house operations; Kirk Ladner, house operations; Linda Wagner, public relations.

Club activities began with several fund raisers, including a bake sale, a softball tournament and a volleyball tournament. As a result of a successful bake sale, the Jaycees were able to make a donation to the Mississippi Lung Association.

The Jaycees participated in the Hancock County Heart Fund Golf Tournament at Diamondhead by collecting gifts to be used as prizes for tournament winners. These gifts were donated by many Bay St. Louis and Waveland merchants.

The Jaycees are presently supporting the Hancock County Youth Center Commission which is working to establish a community center and youth recreation program this summer.

Future projects planned include collecting food and donations for the Food Pantry and holding a young teen dance.

A membership drive crawfish boil recently provided fun and fellowship for members, visitors and their families.

The Bay-Waveland Jaycees meet first and third Wednesdays at the Jaycee House, 547 St. John Street, Bay St. Louis. For information call 467-5931 or 467-0761.

Harrison/Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association

The Young Lawyers Section of the Harrison County Bar Association presented a mock trial entitled "The Curly Pig Trial" at the June 9 meeting of the Harrison-Hancock Legal Secretaries Association.

In a twist on the three pigs theme, Curly Pig, portrayed by Gulfport Attorney Bobby Ariatti, was tried on the charge of attempted wolf cooking.

Plaintiff B.B. Big Bad Wolf (Attorney Skip Wusnack) failed to prove his case as the jury found for the defendant.

Other participants included Bill Whitfield as defense counsel, Wynn Clark, counsel for plaintiff and Tim Murr, judge. The group has been presenting the trial to local elementary schools.

Paula Leger presented legal education on the subject Mississippi Rules of Court.

Regina Loveless-Schulz, employed with the Gulfport firm of Galloway & Galloway was initiated as a new member. Welcome to the association.

Members are currently selling cookbooks as a fund raiser for the state association, Mississippi Association of Legal Secretaries. Contact a member today for yours!

The next meeting of the Harrison-Hancock Counties LSA will be held Thursday, July 14, 1988, at the Gulfport Best Western Inn, Hwy 90. Anyone interested in attending or membership should contact Glenda Downs at 452-9408.

VFW Post 5931 Ladies Auxiliary

The ladies auxiliary of VFW Post 5931, Cecil R. Ruddock, met on June 9 at the post.

President Stelia Ladner opened the meeting. A new member, Ruby Pickerill, was introduced. She was installed and was presented a VFW emblem by the president.

Inez Boudin reported that a blood drive would be held June 16 at 2:30 p.m. at the post.

A luncheon will be held at 11:30 a.m. on June 14 for the VA veterans.

Various reports were given by the chairmen.

The president reported that preparations were under way for the state convention in Tupelo on June 24, 25 and 26.

There were 15 members in attendance.

The next meeting will be held July 14 at 7 p.m.

Fountain-Poolson

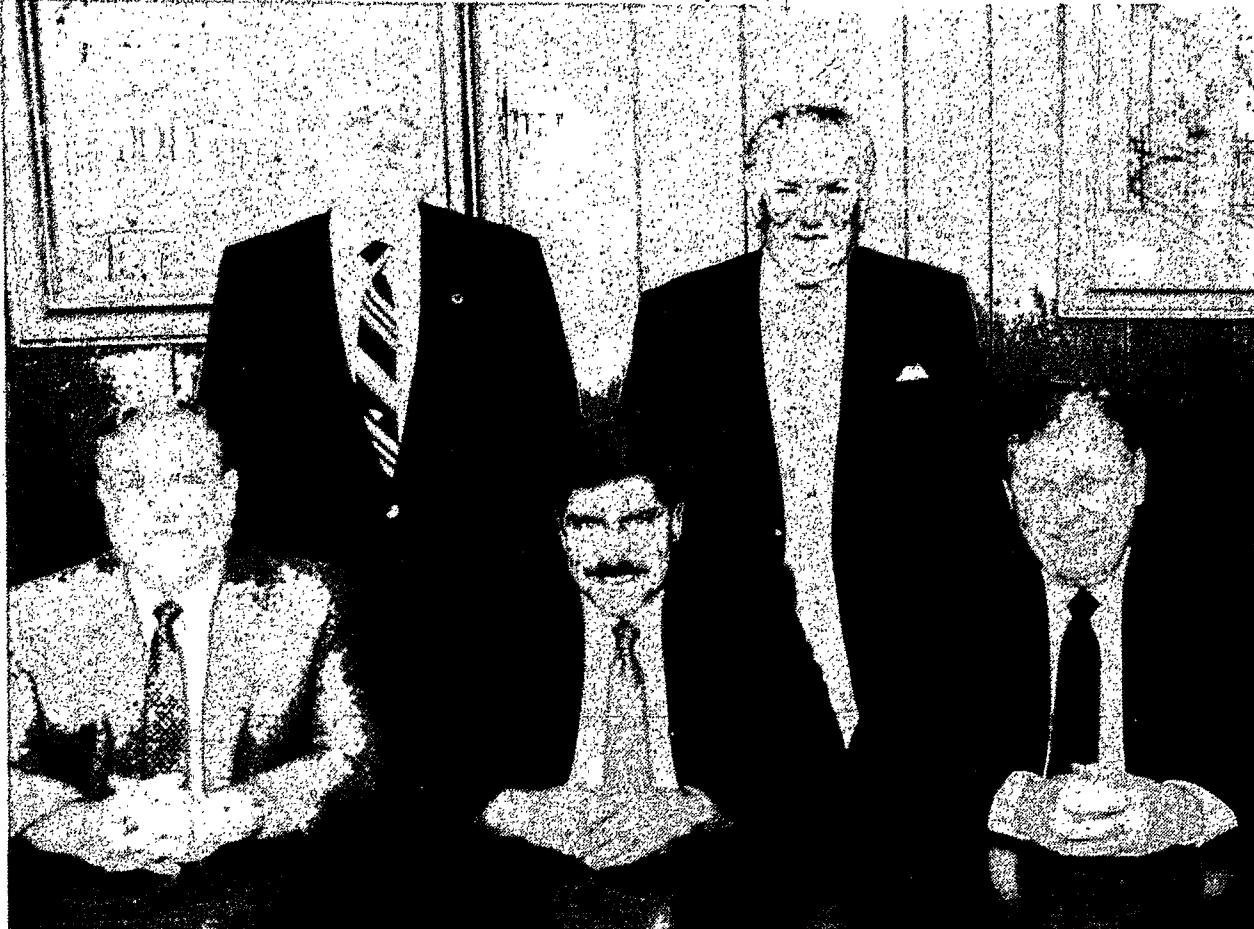

Mrs. Mildred Stinson of Bay St. Louis announces the approaching marriage of her daughter, Sheila Kaye Fountain, to Francis G. (Jay) Poolson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Poolson Sr. of Bay St. Louis. Ms. Fountain is the daughter of the late Thomas G. Stinson.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Bay Senior High School and Auburn University. She is employed with Hancock Medical Center in Bay St. Louis.

The prospective groom is a graduate of Bay Senior High School. He is a member of International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) and is employed with L. K. Comstock Co., New York, N. Y.

The couple will exchange wedding vows Saturday, June 25, in an 11 a.m. ceremony at McLeod Water Park on Texas Flat Road in Bay St. Louis, with wedding picnic to follow. In case of inclement weather, St. Rose de Lima will be the setting. Friends and relatives are invited to attend.

WAVELAND CIVIC ASSOCIATION—Officers recently elected to serve the Waveland Civic Association for 1988-89 are, seated from left, Lawrence Freeman, president; J. A. Lagasse III, vice president; John Mason, secretary; standing, Richard Bessey, treasurer; and Tal-madge Conway Sr., sergeant-at-arms.

PAGEANT WINNER—Sarah E. Cure, 11-month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Cure of Waveland, won first place and overall "Miss" title at the St. Clare Seafood Miss and Beau pageant. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Garcia of Waveland and Joseph E. Cure and Sylvia Cure. Her great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Mel Villere and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Garcia, all of Waveland.

BAY AUTHOR—Anna Marie Piazza, native and former resident of Bay St. Louis, daughter of the late Vincent J. Piazza and Mrs. Ina Piazza, is the author of a forthcoming novel, The Diary of Mary Louise Rossi: Nun, which is being excerpted in Muse's Mill, a literary quarterly, beginning in the June issue. VIDEOVIEW

By Harley W. Lond and Marilyn Moss

MOVIES: Like Father Like Son (1987) is a "role-reversal" comedy in which a respected heart surgeon (Dudley Moore) changes bodies with his high school student son (Kirk Cameron), setting off all manner of gently funny situations (RCA/Columbia Pictures Home Video, rated PG-13, 101 minutes, due June 16, 1989). Cry Freedom (1987) is director Sir Richard Attenborough's dramatic exploration of the friendship between famed South African black activist Stephen Bantu Biko (Denzel Washington) and liberal white journalist Donald Woods (Kevin Kline) (MCA Home Video, rated PG, 157 minutes, due June 16, 1989). The Barbarians (1987) is a sword and sorcery drama starring the bodybuilder Barbarian Brothers (Peter and David Paul) (Media Home Entertainment, rated R, 88 minutes, $89.95).

CLASSICS: Director Billy Wilder's Academy Award-winning The Lost Weekend (1945) is a stark portrayal of the downward plunge of an alcoholic, played brilliantly by Ray Milland (MCA Home Video, not rated, 100 minutes, B&W, $59.95).

Son of Dracula (1943) is director Robert Siodmak's extrapolation of the famous vampire legend, starring Lon Chaney Jr. as The Count from Transylvania (MCA Home Video, not rated, 100 minutes, B&W, $29.95).

IN OUR TIME OF LOSS...

The thoughtfulness, sympathy, and prayers by our friends and neighbors during our recent sorrow, will always remain with us as a precious memory.

Prepare rib roast for Father's Day

It wasn't until 1924 that the first national observance of Father's Day was recommended by President Calvin Coolidge. Ever since then, mothers and children have thought up ways to let father know just how much he's appreciated. For many families that means an extra special meal.

While Dad's relaxing, prepare an impressive beef rib eye roast cooked to perfection on the barbecue grill. Fortunately, cooking a roast outdoors is as easy as it is delicious. Fun to prepare, it keeps the heat out of the kitchen too.

Start by selecting a four to six-pound beef rib eye roast. This roast is cut from the large center muscle of the rib. When cooking the roast, use a meat thermometer to accurately determine when it's done. Place the meat thermometer into the thickest part of the roast, at an angle, making sure it doesn't rest in fat.

For optimum flavor, cook the beef roast over ash-free coals in a covered grill using indirect heat. That means the coals are arranged on the lower grid around the outer edges of the grill. A drip pan is placed in between the coals to collect drippings from the roast which is placed over it.

In addition to being one of Dad's favorites, this recipe for Grilled Beef Rib Eye Roast with Green Onions fits into today's trend towards healthful eating. One three-ounce cooked, trimmed serving has only 200 calories. The spicy rub used on this roast gives it a distinctive flavor and contains no oil, keeping calories to a minimum. The spices are quickly combined and rubbed evenly over the surface of the roast enhancing the natural flavor of the beef.

Grilled green onions make a simple, yet delicious accompaniment to the grilled rib eye roast. Just brush whole green onions with olive oil and sprinkle lightly with freshly ground black pepper. Grill the onions, just until slightly wilted.

In keeping with a delicious, healthy meal for Father's Day, serve Cherry Frozen Yogurt with Chocolate Chunks. This frozen dessert has only 210 calories per 1/2 cup serving and is so simple to make the kids can help too. Make this meal a truly special, family affair to honor Dad.

GRILLED BEEF RIB EYE ROAST WITH GREEN ONIONS

Preparation time: 10 minutes

Cooking time: 2 to 2 1/2 hours

4 to 6-pound beef rib roast
1 teaspoon each chili powder, dried oregano leaves and garlic salt

1/2 teaspoon ground cumin

1/8 teaspoon ground cloves

1/4 teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper

2 bunches green onion, with 3-inches of green tops

1 teaspoon olive oil

Dash coarsely ground black pepper

Cook beef rib eye roast in a covered grill using indirect heat; arrange coals on lower grid around outside edges of grill. Place a drip pan between the coals. Combine chili powder, oregano, garlic salt, cumin, cloves and 1/4 teaspoon pepper; rub evenly over surface of beef roast. Insert roast meat thermometer so bulb is centered in thickest part. When coals are ash-gray (about 30 minutes), place roast, fat side up, on grid above the drip pan. Cover cooker (leaving all vents open). Cook roast to desired degree of doneness, approximately 15 to 20 minutes per pound. Remove roast when meat thermometer registers 135 degrees for rare; 155 for medium. Allow roast to 'stand' 15 to 20 minutes in a warm place before carving. Roasts continue to rise about 5 degrees in temperature to 140 degrees for rare; 160 for medium. Meanwhile brush onions with oil and sprinkle lightly with pepper. Place onions directly over the coals; cook until slightly wilted, about 2 to 4 minutes.

Note: A beef rib eye roast will yield three 3-ounce cooked servings per pound.

Nutrient data per 3 ounce, cooked, trimmed serving: 200 calories; 22 g protein; 11 g fat; 1.7 g carbohydrates; 2.4 mg iron (13% U.S. RDA); 176 mg sodium; 69 mg cholesterol.

CHERRY FROZEN YOGURT WITH CHOCOLATE CHUNKS

Preparation time: 10 minutes

Churning time: 30 to 40 minutes

Freezing time: 1 to 2 hours

3 cartons (8 ounces each) cherry flavored yogurt

1 cup half and half

1/4 cup sugar

I've been cooking my way through the cookbook, trying out recipes which strike my fancy and my appetite! Here's one from the Garlic Festival, since I started with that:

WOWCHOS

2 lg. heads garlic, separated into cloves and peeled

2 Tbsp. oil

8 oz. tortilla chips

1/2 cup red onion, chopped

1 small can green chilies, chopped

1/3 cup pimento-stuffed olives, sliced

1 1/2 cups Monterey Jack pepper cheese, grated

Cilantro (coriander) optional

Green onion tops

Coat the garlic cloves with oil and bake in 375 degree oven for a half hour, or until soft and golden. Cover the bottom of a metal 9x12 pan with overlapping tortilla chips. Spread the garlic, onion, chilies and olives over the chips. Cover with cheese, bake at 400 for 5 minutes, until cheese melts. Top with chopped cilantro and green onions. Easy!

(Serves 4 as an appetizer.)

(Copyright, 1988, K.D.M. Caire)

1/3 cup chopped pecans, toasted

1 bar (1.65 ounces) milk chocolate, chopped about 1/3 cup

Combine yogurt, half and half and sugar in ice cream machine container. Freeze according to manufacturer's directions, adding pecans and chocolate just before yogurt is completely frozen. Place in refrigerator freezer to ripen, about 1 to 2 hours. Yield: 1 quart.

Nutrient data per 1/2 cup serving: 210 calories; 5 g protein; 9 g fat; 28 g carbohydrates; 67 mg sodium; 16 mg cholesterol.

There's no middle ground as to garlic, is there? Either you glory in its pungent taste or you can't bear to be around it, in any case.

If garlic repels you, stay away from Gilroy, California, the last three-day weekend in July, for that's when garlic reigns supreme—and ever so lustily—at the Gilroy Garlic Festival. If you like garlic, head West! Gilroy, in the south Santa Clara Valley on California's central coast, has proclaimed itself as the "Garlic Capital of the World," as it produces or processes the greater proportion of the garlic consumed in America.

Offerings at the many food booths range from those of professional chefs and restaurants to secrets of home cooks, from garlicky cheese creations to garlic ice cream (and some of you thought me rather strange when I spoke of my liking for a generous sprinkling of cayenne pepper over vanilla ice cream, an old-time Creole treat!)

At the Garlic Festival there's a recipe contest and cookoff, and all sorts of entertainment—and even a Garlic Lovers' Cookbook with the winning recipes of past years, all involving the subtle and sometimes not-so-subtle art of garlic cookery.

The area is also known for its artichokes and wine. (There's the Artichoke Festival in Castroville in early September, and wine festivals in April and October.)

This is one of the numerous festivals I learned about while leafing through a delightful soft-cover book, "Gourmet Food and Wine Festivals of North America" by Carol Spivack and Richard A. Weinstock (Printwheel Press, Ventura, Ca., $4.95) and its idea-filled companion piece, "The Food Festivals Cookbook" by the same authors (Printwheel Press, $7.95).

Master chefs and top cooks share their secrets, and we learn of festivals in various parts of the United States and Canada.

As the cost of the raw vanilla bean rises, it is becoming increasingly popular to produce artificial vanilla flavoring. Chocolate, too, is being synthetically produced. The next time you buy a vanilla or chocolate product, check the list of ingredients to find out if you were given the real thing.

The famous Liberty Bell, housed in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, was cast in London and arrived in America in 1752. Reflections

I'm One Of A Kind

By Fr. Jerome Ledoux, SVD

You may remember I told you some time ago that I'm very special in many ways; in fact, I'm special delivery. So special am I that, without any doubt, I am one of a kind.

With five billion people, to compare myself to, plus billions more who have lived before us, I do not hesitate to claim that there has not been, is not, nor ever will be another me.

I do allow that you and all those others among the untold billions can claim the same as I can. However, for the sake of clarity, let us concentrate on just one person; namely, me.

First of all, long before the Big Bang set the cahn of the universe in motion, God had me in mind; even called my by name.

The angels were not yet created when God already knew just how I would be conceived, formed, molded, reared and educated.

In fact, from all eternity, which is totally immeasurable, God had me as much in mind as the most brilliant angel.

I'm one of a kind, because God had set my particular pattern, my individual soul aside long before the world was young, barren and smoldering from incredibly hot, belching, eruptive volcanoes.

It tickles my innards to know that, although I am very limited in time with my handful of years, the recognition of my name, my person and my identity reach back beyond thousands, millions, billions of years; indeed, beyond whatever time can be measured.

I know that I am one of a kind, because God created my soul in the image and likeness of the Blessed Trinity, so very much like the souls of all other humans, yet so very peculiarly my own.

"Everyone has a double somewhere in the world," we hear every now and then. There is some truth in that, and sometimes we do meet someone with an eerie resemblance to ourselves.

Nevertheless, not even identical twins, though conceived from a single egg and nurtured under practically identical conditions, are truly identical. Each of them is truly one of a kind.

No matter how close you are to me by blood, no matter how much the signatures of our genes are carbon copies, I am still one of a kind. That is something very good, not bad at all, for it shows how God created us diverse in structure and capacity.

I am one of a kind, although there are intellects very similar to mine. Of all the minds which have been, which are and which will be, there will never be another just like mine. My way of thinking, though so much like yours, is unique in all the world.

Working through the medium of my parents, my family and my environment, God made me one of a kind in personality. Many people bear a striking resemblance to me in personality, but what and how I am is an original which cannot be duplicated.

I am one of a kind in my mannerisms: some good, some indifferent, some questionable, some even a bit eccentric. Again, there is nothing bad here, but merely the fascination of diversity.

God saw to it that the composite which is I, though very similar to millions of other people in particular components, is quite distinct, quite unique in me, the ensemble.

Certainly, I am one kind when you consider that many people do not want to be like me, some would desire to be like me, but no one claims me as anything even approaching a duplicate.

Yes, God threw away the mold 5 billion times, just as in the case of my creation. None of the molds fits me, because everything, even the manner of God's grace at work within my soul, though essentially the same in all people, is unique to me alone.

HANDICAPPED ARTS FAIR—Representative J. P. Compretta of Bay St. Louis, left, president of the Mississippi Arts Fair for the Handicapped, met with officers and fair board members recently to finalize plans for the annual fair. FmHA issues proposed new lending rules Proposed rules, which could assist hundreds of farmers who are behind on their Farmers Home Administration loans, were issued May 23, 1988 according to FmHA Mississippi State Director John A. Arthur.

The new regulations will carry out portions of the Agricultural Credit Act passed by Congress last December. "There will be a 30-day comment period and additional time for any appropriate changes before the regulations become effective," Arthur said.

One of the changes would allow FmHA to reduce the delinquent debt of certain borrowers to help them stay in business.

In related actions, the agency also issued proposed regulations to:

—Make it easier for farmers or their families to lease or buy back homesteads that have been lost through foreclosure or conveyance;

—Set up a program to help members of minority and socially disadvantaged groups to purchase farmland and develop an outreach program to carry it out;

—Establish a new administrative appeals unit distinct from the rest of the agency's handle borrower grievances; —Certify and participate in state mediation programs. Anyone interested in submitting comments on the proposed regulations, which appeared in the Federal Register, should address them to Chet Bailey, Department of Agriculture, Farmers Home Administration, Farmer Program Division, 5019 South Building, Washington, D.C. 20250.

NOTICE OF SALE
CIVIL ACTION NO. 18,745

By virtue of the provisions of the Judgment of the Chancery Court of Hancock County, Mississippi, in the above styled and numbered cause on the 13th day of June, 1988, the undersigned Special Commissioner, appointed by the Court in said cause, will on the 11th day of July, 1988, in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, during legal hours at the front door of the Court-house offer for sale, and will sell to the highest and best bidder for cash, the following described real property, to-wit:

Commencing at the Northwest corner of Section 19, Township 6 South, Range 15 West, Hancock County, Mississippi; thence South 89 degrees 27 minutes 48 seconds East 628.30 feet, more or less, to the point of beginning; thence South 02 degrees 51 minutes 58 seconds West 483.24 feet, thence East 454.76 feet, more or less, to a point on the West margin of Blumville Road; thence North 02 degrees 31 minutes 39 seconds East in the West margin 478.98 feet, more or less, to a point on the South margin of Highway 43; thence North 89 degrees 27 minutes 48 seconds West in the South margin 454.50 feet, more or less, to the point of beginning, this parcel containing 5.02 acres and being a part of the Northwest Quarter of the Northwest Quarter, Section 19, Township 6 South, Range 15 West, Hancock County, Mississippi.

Said real property is being sold since it is incapable of a division in kind, and the title is believed to be good, but I will convey only such title as is vested in me as said Special Commissioner. Confirmation of said sale is set for 22 July 1988 in the Chancery Court of Hancock County, Mississippi.

WITNESS my signature, on this, the 13th day of June, A.D., 1988.

KITCHEN KORNER

A Tip From Martha Stewart: K mart Entertainment And Lifestyle Consultant

"The choice of wedding cake seems to typify contemporary wedding behavior. Instead of the traditional white cake, many of today's brides are selecting more unusual varieties. Some of my favorite recipes are for chocolate-almond, sour lemon, Italian cream, spice, whipped cream or pound cake."
